EPGE maintains the 1st place in Latin America in the Tilburg University International Ranking. (News from 11/27/2020)

The EPGE Brazilian School of Economics and Finance of the Getulio Vargas Foundation (FGV EPGE) maintained the 1st position among all economics departments in Latin America in the new disclosure of the International Ranking of the University of Tilburg. That way, it maintains a tradition of more than ten years.

The ranking is one of the most respected in the world and lists the best Schools of Economics based on clear and well-established criteria of academic publications, based on the analysis of a database with the main scientific journals in the field. The Tilburg ranking tends to serve as a basis for international comparisons among all economics departments in the world.

In the world classification, EPGE appears, in the last two years, in the 118th position. The top economics departments in this world ranking include those associated with the London School of Economics, Harvard University, Stanford University, University of Chicago, University of California-Berkeley and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In this world ranking, EPGE (118th) appears in a better ranking than economics departments worldwide recognized as those associated with George Washington University (123rd), Humboldt University of Berlin (123rd); Rice University (140th), University of Hamburg (140th), University of Bath (140th), University Autònoma Barcelona (156th) and several others.

Regarding Latin America, the three best ranked departments are, in addition to EPGE (118th), the economics departments of the University of the Andes (130th) and the Pontifical Catholic University of Chile (181st).

XII. Faculty Distinctions

EPGE professor Aloisio Araujo receives 2020 Werner Baer Awar. (News from 08/12/2020)

Professor Aloisio Araujo of Fundação Getulio Vargas' Brazilian School of Economics and Finance (FGV EPGE) is the winner of the 2020 Werner Baer Award. This was announced on December 7 at the opening ceremony of the 48th National Economics Meeting, held by ANPEC.

The Werner Baer Award, sponsored by the Lemann Foundation in partnership with the University of Illinois, pays tribute to the careers and legacies of renowned researchers. The aim is to recognize exceptional and transformational work, focused on Brazil's development, specifically in the areas of education economics, education funding, economics teaching and the role of science in the economy.

Aloisio Araujo is a member of the American Academy of Arts & Science and American Economic Association. He is the vice dean of FGV EPGE and one of its professors, as well as an emeritus researcher at the Institute of Pure and Applied Mathematics (IMPA), a member of the Brazilian Academy of Science and a fellow of the Guggenheim Foundation, Econometric Society, Society for the Advancement of Economic Theory (of which he is a former president) and the Third World Academy of Sciences. In 1999, he received the Order of Scientific Merit from the president of Brazil. In 2019, he was appointed a special advisor to Brazil's economy minister.
